Advert Description

GoPro-Marketing works through a network of dedicate GoPro-Marketing Agents who supply their products and services to SMEs. We are currently establishing our network in South Africa and Africa and are offering an entry level price to our first 10x prospective agent applicants. For as little as R30 000 starting capital you can acquire a GoPro agency business and a bright future in digital marketing. We supply all the training support and marketing team for your business which takes the risk out of it.

GoPro-Marketing is an international, one-stop marketing company providing outsourced products and service to SMEs and who is dedicated to helping any size enterprise to optimize their performance, achieve a higher growth rate while maximising their profitability. We are truly committed to the success of our “partner” SMEs because our survival and success is dependent on this.

GoPro Marketing, as our name indicates, is a company dedicated to offering tried and tested and award winning digital marketing products and services to SMEs wanting to grow their businesses and maximise their profitability. Generally most SMEs want to grow their business and become more profitable, but simply don't have the capital or resources available to hire a full marketing team to give them full market support and exposure in their region of operation.

We recognise that our younger generation are our future buyers. ” Isn't it amazing how our kids are mastering smart phone technology to find the information, products and services they are presently looking for, to buy.” Looking ahead as they become adults they will continue to use this technology to find and buy what they are looking for online. The Internet and technology makes this possible and easy. Small to medium sized enterprises (SMEs) who have missed this trend will lose out in the future to wily competitors. These prospective customers will simply buy from someone else who's products and services are online in the future. It is absolutely imperative for SMEs to be involved in digital marketing for their future wellbeing and survival. It's a fact that all business is migrating onto the Internet and digital sales are escalation into a multi-trillion rand market, which is fast becoming the new growth marketing opportunity to those who know their way around it. Those who have switched to digital sales are fast getting ahead and making a fortune on the Web.

If you are interested in finding out more about this opportunity kindly contact Ken Maade @ 065 887 6353 or ken@africabrokers.com . I look forward to hearing from you soon, please don't delay as there are only 10 opportunities available at this special launch price.
